

“Teaching students who want to be nurses is an honor.”

Nursing education... pass it on.

When I was eight years old, I asked my mother if I could be a nurse and a teacher, because I truly wanted to be both. She told me things would work themselves out, and they did. Being able to teach others the art and science of nursing is an honor. It gives me great personal satisfaction to help students with critical thinking processes and to see them progress from novice students to new graduates. Want to know more about making a difference through a career in nursing education?
